Ex-Premier Arrives In America For Tour

NEW YORK, October 5.—(By the Associated Press)—Lloyd George, former British Premier, landed at the Battery at 11:30 a. m. today. A vast crowd which jammed the square and filled the streets leading into it greeted the statesman with a roar of cheers as he left the police boat. Macdon, on which he came up the bay and entered an auto for a ride to city hall. Hundreds of Americans and British flags were raised. From the sky scrapers long streamers of ticker tape were thrown, giving a carnival appearance to the scene. Banks of policemen stood stiffly at attention as Lloyd George landed. Mounted officers formed an escort for the distinguished visitor. Motorcycles roared as the riders pulled unobscured into line. The blare of music of a police band on the Macdon was drowned by noise of the crowd. The approach of the Premier was heralded by whistles of the harbor craft and other steamers tooting a welcome. Passing the Statute of Liberty the Macdon saluted with three long blasts of its whistle.

The war premier of Great Britain set foot on American soil for the first time today.

Coming here as a private citizen to tour the United States and Canada, the doughty little Welshman and his family were taken from the liner Mauretania at quayside and landed at the Battery on the police boat Macdon. At quayside the latest member of the "Big Four" to come to the United States, made it known that he intended while here to call on former President Wilson, with whose aid the treaty of Versailles, ending the World War, was drawn. He declared that the treaty, asserting that it was the monster in which it was operated that had caused unhappiness and endorsed the proposal of statesmen and economists to end the troubles of Central Europe.

China Gets President

PEKING, October 5.—(By the Associated Press)—Mao Tse Tung, chief of the Northern military, has been elected president of China.

In China the president is elected by parliament.

Tao K'ai becomes president in succession to Li Yuan Hing who quit his office and fled to Tientsin last spring because of the menacing situation in Peking brought about by the military. At the time of Li's abdication the military, whom he had opposed, had made a show of force, having engineered a strike of the Metropolitan police force and threatening disorder unless the president fled. It was widely predicted that Mao Tse Tung would become president and there were several futile efforts to assemble enough members of parliament to make a quorum.

Meanwhile for three months China has been without a president.

W. E. D. STOKES INDICTED

SPANISH DICTATOR

First Close-up Photographic Study Of Rivera, Wielder of the 'Big Stick' In Spain.

CHICAGO, October 5.—(By the Associated Press)—W. E. D. Stokes, millionaire hotel man of New York, his attorney, Daniel Nugent, of New York, and five others, were indicted by the county grand jury today on charges of conspiracy in connection with the charges of Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, who had been indicted in connection with her divorce suit.

The indictments, containing nine counts, comes on the eve of the re-hearing of the suit in which Stokes seeks to divorce his wife. The hearing is set for Monday in New York. Those named besides Stokes and his attorney include a taxi-cab driver and four negroes, one of them a former Chicago deputy sheriff.

They are Robert H. Lee, former deputy sheriff, Joseph Bruner, taxi-cab driver said to have been used as a "payoff" man and alleged to have sought to live on the "toll" money. Roy Hubert, former head waiter of the Beaux Arts Club, a black and tan resort; Henry Tinsley, a New York negro said to have made an affidavit that Mrs. Stokes once was an inmate of a resort, and Mrs. Mattie Johnson, negro, alleged to have been active in gathering evidence for Stokes.

The indictment is the first returned in court since Mrs. Stokes recently made public her sensational charges that her husband and his agents had plotted by perjured evidence to attempt to besmirch her name, with charges and insinuations that she had a dozen years ago been an inmate of a notorious resort here and had frequented negro cafes.

She has charged that the divorce suit and the alleged conspiracy were her husband's effort to cut off her two children from Stokes' estate, that his wealth might go to his son, W. E. D. Stokes, Jr., by a former marriage.

The young man, referred to as "Wendell," has been named by Mrs. Stokes for $1,000,000 as a result of a letter she alleges to have written his

Lloyd George Gives His Views On Current Events

ABOARD MAURETANIA IN NEW YORK HARBOR

NEW YORK, October 5.—(By the Associated Press)—The anti-unpopularity and difficulties resulting from the war have been caused by an improper or ineffective operation of the provisions of the treaty of Versailles, David Lloyd George, former premier of Great Britain, declared today on his arrival in America for a tour of the United States and Canada.

"Has the Versailles treaty brought happiness and settlement to the world?" he was asked.

"No, but I do not think the mischief is with the Versailles treaty. The trouble has been with how the treaty has been carried out," replied Mr. Lloyd George.

The most important factor which might lead toward the settlement of the difficulties of Central Europe, which Mr. Lloyd George said still were grave, was acceptance of the proposal of Secretary Hughes in his New Haven address that the situation be analyzed and adjusted by an international committee of competent statesmen and economists.

Asked whether there was any imminent danger in the Central European situation, the veteran British statesman declared:

"There is always danger in Central Europe. The situation is pretty bad, isn't it? The one thing which might have helped would have been acceptance of your Mr. Secretary Hughes' proposal, is it not too late, but it is pretty late."

The League of Nations, Mr. Lloyd George declared, had certainly been weakened by the Greco-Italian situation and its settlement. He refused to declare his attitude toward Premier Mussolini's conduct in the imbroglio.

The League of Nations, he asserted, answering another question, "cannot be considered a going concern without the participation of the United States."

Mr. Lloyd George did not think the Ruhr situation any more hopeful now than it had been since the French occupation. It was difficult to make up one's mind about the exact status of such an important matter, he added, declaring, however, that he did not think a re-approachement between England and France was in sight on this question at the present moment.

Contrary and contradicting rumors, he asserted, made it difficult for him to express an opinion about the possibility of establishing a Rhineland republic.

CHICAGO, October 5.—(By the Associated Press)—

Women Stage Demonstration Against British War Premier

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(By the United Press)—

Irish Republican sympathizers gathered at City Hall park a few minutes before Lloyd George was due to arrive and began marching in a long column, displaying placards, denouncing Great Britain. Police quickly destroyed the placards and dispersed the marchers. The demonstrators arrived in autos, formed their line of march and walked slowly along Park Row. The placards were held by women. Each placard was mounted on a long pole and had denunciatory phrases pointed in black on a white background. Since then the idea seems to have spread that it is unethical to disclose what is said at a conference with the President. Many of the callers frankly tell the newspapermen they have been given to understand that it is improper to disclose what has been said. As a consequence the public is left to obtain its information from the President himself who meets the newspapermen twice a week.

But under the rules, Mr. Coolidge has the right to decline to answer any of the written questions handed to him. It is a breach of the rules to let the public know what questions he refuses to answer and there should be many an interesting story indeed if it were possible to disclose how many questions of general interest Mr. Coolidge has side-stepped since he became President.

In the first few conferences with the press, the President permitted enough information about his policies to let the public know what he was doing. In recent weeks there has been a noticeable diminution in information. Much of the President's plans are necessarily withheld because he wants to put his program into a complete address to Congress in December. This leaves a multitude of subjects on which there is just now live interest.

Details of some of the conferences at the White House have been given out, but usually after the callers have departed and there is no opportunity to get the impartial view of what is being done that has been possible under the preceding administrations. There have been some callers who upon learning the version of their visit given out at the White House a day or so after their departure would have been glad to express their side of the question, but have been restrained by what they imagined to be the ethics of the situation.

Congress is not now in session, and the only branch of the government which is functioning actively is the Executive. But even the Cabinet officers seem to have taken their cue from Mr. Coolidge and are unusually secretive about their visits to the White House.

There is nothing unethical in a frank statement by a visitor at the White House as to the purpose of his call, or even an explanation of what he said to the President. It always has been considered bad form for a caller to be quoted on the President's views without permission, though many callers have felt it was proper to give the impressions they received of the Presidential attitude toward pending questions. If the President desires to Simplicity of detail and quiet beauty characterized the wedding of Miss Dolly Carolyn Bean, beautiful and attractive daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. P. Bean, of 1302 Ninth street, and Mr. Howard D. Jewett, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Jewett, of 1130 Second street, which took place this morning.

Henderson Smith Unable To Tell Wife Who Fired Fatal Shot; Inquest To Be Held

Following the death of Henderson (Hence) Smith, aged 42, Tick Ridge house trader, who succumbed to a bullet wound received in the back last Monday, when he passed away in Schirman hospital Thursday afternoon Sheriff Dunham and Deputy Sheriffs Reno and Cantor concentrated their energies Friday in an effort to locate the gun-user and place him under arrest.

The fatal shooting was the culmination of a drinking bout, which ended near the N. & W. depot at Haverhill, when Smith was shot. In a dying statement to his wife, he stated that he did not see the gun-user and had no idea who fired the fatal shot.

Stewart McNeely, aged 55, who was with Smith when wounded, was arrested soon after the shooting, but was released on a $300 bond after he was fined on an intoxication charge by Squire Morgan. McNeely told Sheriff Dunham that he was so drunk he did not know who shot Smith and that he was lying on the ground asleep when the first shot aroused him. He says that two more quickly followed the first shot, but he was too drunk to arouse himself and make an effort to identify the gun-user. Smith in an ante-mortem statement to his wife and other relatives said he heard McNeely say to the man who shot him: "Shoot him again! Shoot him again!" These were the only words spoken by Smith after being shot. He clung steadfastly to the story that he, too, was under the influence of liquor and had no idea who shot him. He claimed he never saw the third man with them.

Sheriff Goes To Hospital
Upon learning that Smith had taken a sudden change for the worse after apparently he was out of danger, Sheriff Dunham lost no time in reaching Schirman hospital Thursday afternoon, but Smith was in a semi-conscious condition and could not answer questions asked of him by the Sheriff, and he passed away a short time later.

After McNeely was arrested and sobered up, I took him to a private room and quizzed him about all phases of the shooting, but he could throw no light on them. He said he was too drunk to see the shooting and the last words he remembered saying to Smith were: "This is the last half pint we have, so let's take a big drink and kill it." The Sheriff told a Times man, last night.

"I questioned McNeely from every angle possible, but he was unable to give any version whatever of the shooting. He said he resided in Lawrence county, just over the Scioto county line, and that he was 55 years old. He said he came to Lawrence county from Nauvutuck, W. Va., and that he had known Smith for some time, they frequently made trips together while trading horses and dealing in cattle.

Was a Stranger
"McNeely further told me that the gun-user was a stranger, tried to pick a quarrel with him, and several times pointed his gun at him." C. C. Jones and P. J. Lallow of the contracting firm of Lallow and Jones, Scioto county, were eye-witnesses to the trouble.

They are building a school house at Ohio Furnace and were enroute to the job when they came upon the three men in the road. The scene of the trouble was on the road about two-thirds of the way between Haverhill and the N. & W. railroad tracks. As Jones and Lallow drove up the three men were mixing it up in the road a short distance from a Ford roadster in which they probably had been riding.

Was Cattle Buyer
Smith had for years been a horse trader and a dealer in cattle and horse country. He and his family resided on Tick Ridge, about ten miles northwest of Wheelersburg. In addition to his wife, Mrs. May Perry Smith, he leaves the following children: John, Laura, Frederick, Frank, Virginia, Ruth and Leola, all at home. He also leaves one brother, John K. Smith, of New Castle, Pa., and three sisters: Mrs. Ora Buppsett and Mrs. Ida Hutchins, of New Castle, Pa., and Mrs. Wm. Sutter of Wheelersburg.

Funeral services for Smith will be conducted from the home of his sister, Mrs. Wm. Sutter, Wertz Addition, in Wheelersburg, at 2 p. m. Saturday. At 8 a. m. Sunday the funeral cortege will move by auto to New Olive, Ky., where the interment will take place.

Dam 30, Near Greenup, May Be Operated Next Week

Finishing touches are being made to Dam 30 at Oliver, Ky., three miles west of Greenup, and if present plans do not miscarry, the dam will be placed in operation the first of the week.

The National Contracting Company built the dam on which work was started May 5, 1919. The main contractors left the job last April. H. Campbell and Sons of Huntington are now at work and are making splendid headway on the construction of a modern power house and homes for persons who will be employed on the lock and dam.

The necessary power for the moving of the gates and wickets will be furnished by a temporary power house. The machinery has all been placed and the can be successfully operated with the machinery in this shape until the power house is ready for use. Several of the dams were put in use long before the power houses were completed, boats furnishing the needed power. The gates and the lock have not as yet been moved out of their recess to the installation of the gates "no trouble is expected from this part of the dam. One thing that remains to be completed is the installation of the water turbine on the river wall. This is not at all necessary for the operating of the dam but work on the installing of this machinery is expected to be started today.

The dam has a 700 foot channel pass with a 91 foot bear trap. A number of wickets in the channel pass from the dam when they are raised. The wickets have never been raised so that traffic have never been interfered with making use of the lock necessary.

Percy Humphreys is the temporary lock master and his official appointment to the position of lock master is expected soon.

Donahey

action on the allegations against McNamara.

Refusing almost immediately, the governor, in effect, refused to heed the charges and said he was convinced that Crahan had "nothing but a cheap political interest in the school."

In his rather lengthy reply, the governor declared that Mr. McNamara had nothing to do with the school since the removal last June of Mrs. Mae E. Stannard, since which time it was alleged that escapes from the institution numbered 204, and that his only connection had been "back many years" when Mrs. McNamara was matron.

The McNamaras were retained at the institution under Governor Davis, as well as under a Democratic administration, the governor said, adding that the time for an investigation was soon after the alleged acts had taken place.

Concluding, the governor said: "You in your capacity as attorney general, caused these charges to be prepared and to be filed with me. The proper place to file them, I repeat, is with a grand jury, and I respectfully urge you to do so."

"Especially after your letter of today, relative to recent runaways from the Girls' Industrial School," the Governor wrote to the Attorney General today, "I am of the opinion that you have nothing but a cheap political interest in the school."

Says Charges Are Ancient.
He also denied that McNamara has had any connection with the school since Mrs. Stannard's removal, and directing attention to the charges as dating "back many years—back to a time when Mr. McNamara was an employee at the Girls' Industrial School at Delaware, which was not at that time in charge of Mrs. McNamara, under the general supervision of a bi-partisan board of administration of four members."

"If the charges, or any substantial portion of them are true, there should have been an investigation at the time or soon after the alleged offenses took place," the Governor avers.

"You may recall," he added, "that Mr. and Mrs. McNamara desired to be relieved of their positions and filed their resignations as early as September, 1920. The resignation was not accepted until November, that year, and an examination to select a successor to Mrs. McNamara was held in January, 1921. An official list was certified to the board of administration, a bi-partisan board of four members, which had supervision of state institutions, including the Girls' Industrial School at the time of the alleged acts."

"No appointment, however, was made, and in March, 1921, Harry L. Davis, then Governor, appointed a new board of administration. It made no appointment and the McNamaras continued to serve. On July 1, 1921, Gov. Davis, under the reorganization law appointed Dr. H. S. MacAyeil as director of public welfare to supplant the board of administration. He made no appointment to succeed Mrs. McNamara until May, 1922, and until that time Mrs. McNamara remained in charge of the school and Mr. McNamara remained as an employee."

"In other words, a director of public welfare, under two governors, had ample opportunity to investigate the complaints set forth in your list of charges. Not only did these agencies and officials fail to make such investigation, but continued the McNamaras in their positions against their wishes for a period of 19 months."

"In view of these facts I fail to see why I, several years later, should enter into an investigation of criminal charges of an ancient date, when my predecessors, one of them of opposite politics, continued the McNamaras in office nearly two years after they resigned."

Urges An Investigation.
"However, since the charges have been made by you, I agree that there should be an investigation in order that they may be proven or disproven. You, in your capacity as Attorney General, caused these charges to be prepared, and to be filed with me. The proper place to file them, I repeat, is with a grand jury, and I respectfully urge you to do so."

"If you know of any misconduct on the part of Mr. McNamara during my administration, I wish you would inform me and I shall take prompt action."

In reply to Crahan's assertion that 204 escapes from the institution have occurred since Mrs. Stannard's removal, the Governor says that "the truth is there have been 110 escapes on the part of 82 girls during this time, and all the girls, except seven, have been returned to the school."

"This is not in excess of the number of escapes over a period of years," he adds.

Renewing Complexions
At Home by Absorption

If your complexion is marred by sallowness, muddiness, or such blemishes as liver spots, moth patches, pimples, freckles, it's useless to pester with powders and paints, jellies, creams and things, if you really want to get rid of the condition.

The rational way is to take off the complexion itself, with all its offensive marks, just get an ounce of pure mercuric iodine, and mix it with a little water, and actually absorb the mercuric iodine into your skin, so gradually no one guesses you are treating your face—unless it be by the result, which is truly wonderful. There's nothing like it for restoring a natural, healthy and beautiful complexion—advertisement.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—A will disposing of the estimated $30,000,000 fortune left by Princess Anastasia of Greece, who died in London last August 20, and was buried here, was probated today.

The woman who was known on two continents as "the million dollar princess" and "widow of the thirteenth king," described herself in the will as "born Nonie Stewart, and widow of Wm. B. Leeds."

Minor bequests are made to her son, William B. Leeds, Jr., and his wife, Princess Xenia of Russia, and to a niece, Nancy Stewart Green.

The residue of the estate was left in trust, the income to be divided equally by Prince Christopher, husband of Princess Anastasia, and Margaret Stewart Green of Montclair, N. J., a sister.

From U. S. Grand Jury

At Cincinnati Today

CINCINNATI, OHIO, Oct. 5.—Federal grand jury now in session here will make its first report today to United States Judge Smith Hickenlooper, according to U. S. District Attorney B. W. Hough.

When the jury met today it was understood that the case growing out of alleged defalcation from the American Bank and Trust Company, Dayton, O., by Cashier Fred W. Hecht of about $300,000 will be presented by the district attorney with his assistant.

As the result of the arrest Hecht last August the bank suspended operations. He was charged with embezzlement by Federal authorities and entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned before the United States commissioner at Dayton.

District Attorney Hough, it was learned, will remain here several days to take personal charge of the preparation of the case involving the alleged blackmail of John L. Bushnell, Springfield, O. It is understood that this case will be presented to the grand jury the latter part of next week.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, marriage, matrimony, etc. All inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

DEAR DOLLY—Since the City has been in a public fender yard in the center of town every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, the cleaning of which is quite an expense, it is fitting that a means of disposing of the refuse in a more economical way should be adopted. To anyone not of the "Home Town" the spectacle left after each market day truly presents an admiring sight. How we, as natives, can stand to see our fair city so littered with all sorts of rubbish and garbage from carrot tops to corn husks and back again not to mention rotten pumpkins, watermelons, fish, sandwiches and bottle tops, is more than any of us can answer. This mind you, is not on the back streets, BUT AT THE INTERSECTION OF OUR MAIN THROUGHFARE. If anyone of us would allow his alley to get in such a condition, he would be sternly dealt with by the Board of Health. The Home Beautiful Society, or some equally influential group of Portsmouth, where "Prosperity Begins," is building for an incinerator plant to take care of our rubbish, which would be an unnecessary expense. Why not get a flock of pure bred, obnoxious GOATS. They would be far superior to any other means of disposal because of their low first cost, small overhead and self-sustaining quality. A goat yard at the center of town would be all means be an improvement over the present condition of the place. We can't afford to let the present system continue, so why not do something we can't make worse.

All right, we'll turn BLUE-BUTTERFLIES into a flock of pure bred, obnoxious GOATS. They would be far superior to any other means of disposal because of their low first cost, small overhead and self-sustaining quality. A goat yard at the center of town would be all means be an improvement over the present condition of the place. We can't afford to let the present system continue, so why not do something we can't make worse.

DEAR DOLLY—This is my first time to come to you for advice. Do huckleberries grow in the swamps in the north? What does the word "Hallowe'en" mean? And Dolly, what are the five latest songs out? Would you give me some suggestion for dressing hallowe'en hair (curly and straight) on Hallowe'en night.

Huckleberries usually grow on hills instead of in swamps as I used to go "huckleberrying" in the hills around here lots of times when I was a kid. They are called blue-berries up North and over East. Hallowe'en is so called because it is celebrated on the eve or vigil of All-Hallows, or All Saints Day, Hallowe'en is the feast of All Saints, or the time at which it is held. I think bobbed hair looks better the way it happens to be—curly or straight. Straight hair that is curled always looks so straggly when the curl comes out. If you are going to wear a mask

It won't make much difference how you fix your hair.

DEAR DOLLY—I bought a new plush coat last winter and I got caught in the rain with it and now it looks like a drowned rat, so it is shabby and sticky. Do you know of anything I could do to make it look nice again. I am not able to buy another coat this year.

You might try steaming it, and then brushing it with a whisk broom. If you have a kettle, let it boil briskly and hold the wrong side of the coat over the steam and see if it helps any. If not, I would advise you to send it to a dry cleaner and see what they can do with it.

MISS DOLLY WISE—Will you please give me a recipe for peanut butter is we have a very large patch of peanuts this year.

Pound freshly roasted nuts in a mortar or put them through a chopper, using the knife disengaged especially for the making of nut butters. Season with salt and add a little olive oil if desired. In most cases the oil from the nuts is sufficient to moisten the butter.

DEAR MISS WISE—Will you please tell me as soon as possible where I can sell ginseng and about how much is it a pound.

You might sell it at one of the local junk shops. The prices fluctuate on prices so that I do not like to quote you any figures.

Confessions of a Rum Runner, Member of Smuggler's Crew

Pirates One of the Chief Plagues of Life on Rum Row — How Its Inhabitants Prepare
For Downswoops of the Marauders

The "rum-running" vessels which hang outside the three-mile limit, seeding liquor to be smuggled into this country have received world-wide attention, but so far little has been told from the inside of their actual operations.

The Times, in conjunction with the Manchester Guardian, is now able to give in a series of nine articles, of which this is the sixth, the complete narrative of a member of the crew of a ship engaged in this trade for five months off the American coast. The writer describes in detail the organization and methods by which the trade is carried on, the devices of the smugglers, life on board ship, the types of men who are their over-riding customers and the big men in the background.

The conditions of "Rum Row," where the ships are reported to be "preying" upon the rum ships, the adventures of the launches and the tugs that bring the drink ashore are also related. The writer is a seaman of wide experience in the mercantile marine and The Times and Manchester Guardian have printed of the authenticity of his narrative.

CHAPTER VI

Pirates

(By one of the crew)

We had heard much about pirates long before we reached the coast. Pirates and prices were the principal conversation between the Old Man and the mate. They were well heeled. The mate possessed a Mauser pistol and was a very good shot. I believe he would have used it had occasion demanded, but during our sojourn on the coast occasion never demanded, and I have my judgment of his shooting on his ability to smash empty whisky bottles at thirty and forty yards.

However, it is one thing to hit a bottle at thirty yards and quite another to fire at a man from the same distance, especially if the man is doing some shooting also. The Old Man wasn't used to firearms and always seemed to me to be afraid that his gun would go off when he was firing at anything. Any one in his proposed line of fire would have been safe—barring accidents.

The second engineer and the wireless operator had both been at the front during the war, and I think that those two, with the mate, could have given a very good account of themselves against any pirates. We probably had among the sailors and firemen other veterans of the war, but as the Secret Service was nothing compared to the silence kept by the officers of the ship on matters pertaining to our business, or the risks of our business, they were never asked. This, of course, was very unfair to the men, but what else can one expect with an Old Man that was brought up in the silent school of forty years ago?

Always Ready for Boarders

The Old Man and the mate had made a previous voyage, but they had cruised a long way off the coast. Their cargo had been taken ashore by tugs and they had done no overboard trading. Everything had been cut and dried for them and they had never been at anchor. It was only to the vessels at anchor that the pirates came. So we had no real knowledge to go on, but we took every precaution we could think of.

The officer on the bridge was always armed, day or night, and a very strict watch was kept by him, and the A. B. on watch with him. No boat was ever allowed alongside until Bill or Jack had scrutinized the occupants. The Old Man and every one concerned were told at once of the approach of any boat. It was like going to stations in the navy.

This sort of watchfulness was all right for the Barbarossa or Captain Kidd type of buccaneer, but not for your Yankee rum-plate. Their methods were entirely different, and occasionally showed a remarkable foresight of the precautions likely to be taken by the rum-runners.

I call them rum pirates for want of a better name, but they seldom troubled themselves about the loach carried by their victims. Our idea was that they would come alongside, hold up the ship's company and load their boat—launch or tug, whatever it happened to be—and then depart. This had been done more than once—in fact, they generally made the ship's company load their boats for them—but they could only do this on the small schooners where very few men were carried.

On a large steamer like ours, with a crew of twenty-five men, it was a pretty big undertaking, especially when there was plenty of cover around the decks for a man to hide behind. No, the pirates weren't fools, and, as I said before, it wasn't whisky they were after—it was money.

Nice Picking for a Pirate

We did a lot of overboard trade and all whisky sold over the side was paid for at $50 a case, that of times had rather a lot of greenbacks in the safe. This was what the pirate wanted and I'll give you the story how one of his methods was successful. I heard many stories, but the average bootlegger likes to tell a tall story and invariably lets his imagination run away with him. The story I am going to tell I heard from three different people, and they all told the same story. Two were eye-witnesses. It also has the stamp of truth in it and shows an ingenuity worthy of the New York underworld.

Among our customers was a regular "down-easter" who visited us many times. He was one of the eye-witnesses, and it is his version of the story that I am going to give. We called him Ben, and I asked him one day if he had ever run up against rum pirates.

"Well, I just guess I have," and he pulled up his sleeve and showed me a bullet wound on his forearm.

"See that? That's what I got running up against rum-pirates."

"Tell me about it," I asked.

"Say," he returned, "didn't ye ever hear of the clean-up the guys did on the steamer E—?" I answered that I had, but only from the man who had told it from someone else.

"Say, Ben," said Ben, "I didn't hear the story from some one else. I was right there, and lost a good ship, as well as being held up with fifty bare arms for six weeks. But (as an after-thought) one of them got all that was coming to him, and I guess he never handled any of the greenbacks they robbed us of, (and damn them!)"

How the Game Was Worked

"How did they get on board?" I asked.

"Easy," he answered. "My! but it gets my goat every time I think of it. We were all phlores, every man of us. It was like this here. I was sent on board the E—as supercargo by old Solomon; that ain't his name, but we never mention proper names in this game. Everything went fine and dandy till we came to the last two thousand cases, and I guess there wasn't far short of $100,000 in the safe. We had sold nearly every damned case over the side. It was about four in the afternoon, and the Cap and I were standing talking, just the same as you and I are now, when along comes a decent-sized launch. 'Here's another two hundred going,' Cap says.

"'Good luck,' says Cap. 'Let 'em all come. I'll be real glad to see it all out.'"

"'Any rye?' says one of the guys in the boat. 'There were six of them and I sure should have tumbled to it that there were two funny for a launch of that size, but I didn't.'"

"'Two thousand cases, four brands,' says I.

"'Any Louis Hunter?' says another guy.

"'Sure,' I answered. 'Sixty bucks a case.'"

"'Sixty hell!' from the first guy, who had spoken. 'That's the limit.'"

"'Notin' doing,' I answered; 'but come on board and let's talk.' Well, two of them come on board, and we adjourned to Cap's cabin, where the safe was. After some chin-waggin' we reached a price at $51. They wanted fifty cases and had only $2,500 between them.

"'Ask Sam to come up and bring 200 bucks,' says one of them to the other.

"'Right!' says this guy, and away he went for Sam. When Sam arrived he had nothing less than a $500 bill. 'All right, Cap,' says I. 'There's a hundred change,' and I gave him the sign to show the money was O. K. Cap opens the safe to put the money in and get the change, and the next thing I knew was a gun pushed into my ribs and I was told to reach. Cap was in the same predicament, but as soon as he put his hands up one of them hit him over the head and laid him out.

"'Wall they crooked the safe and made me escort them back to their boat. They took my gun, of course, but I had to pass the mate and he's on deck and I knew they were both heeled. As soon as the pirates were over the side I shouted to them and ran up the ladder on the forecastle head, where a revolver was kept under the windlass for just such an emergency as this. I got one of them and they got more, but you can't do long shooting with a gun.'"

Sam's telling of this story made us take precautions which we might never have taken had we not heard it. Business was done in a room away from the skipper's. The port of the room was kept open and an officer was always outside when business was being done.

We were not going to take any chances.

School Head Urges Parents Not To Give Autos To Students

COLUMBIA, MO., October 5.—Dr. Stratton D. Brooks, president of the University of Missouri here, in a letter to parents made public today, requests that students be not supplied with automobiles and that those who now have cars here be required to take them home.

Dr. Brooks also suggests $50 for fixed expenses and $25 additional as a liberal monthly allowance for students and urges against a larger sum.

"There is probably no one thing more detrimental to success in university work than the possession of an automobile by a student," Dr. Brooks said in his letter. "Experience shows that an unusually large proportion of students having automobiles fail to graduate."

Political Difference Turned Into Prosecution

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Indictment of Benedict Crowell, former assistant secretary of war, and six associates on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government, was declared today by Henry L. Stimson, one of the defendants' attorneys.

Stimson argued in the District of Columbia Supreme Court to have the indictment set aside on the ground of "political difference of opinion in the present administration to transform political difference of opinion into criminal prosecution."

Mr. Stimson, who was secretary of war during the Taft administration, took up the argument begun yesterday by Frank J. Hogan, another defense attorney, in support of a demurrer against the indictment which alleged conspiracy to defraud in connection with construction of army cantonments.

"If the indictment of Mr. Crowell and his associates is upheld, Mr. Stimson contended 'no president would ever be free to exercise his functions as commander-in-chief of the army and navy; that, confronted with the emergency of war and the imperative necessity of prompt action, the executive would be compelled to appeal to Congress for specific authority for his every important act, to await its debates and enactments—or else to act with the knowledge that a criminal indictment would hang over his head once he had won the war.'"

Turkey To Be Proclaimed A Republic In Constitution

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 5.—(By the Associated Press)—The new Turkish constitution will provide that Turkey be proclaimed a republic, with a president elected for a period of four years, it was learned today.

The national assembly will have legislative power only, the executive power being entrusted to a cabinet responsible to the assembly.

A council of state will fulfill the functions usually carried out by a parliamentary upper house. The members of this council will be appointed by the president of the republic.

Civil Czar Favored
BERLIN, Oct. 5.—(By the Associated Press)—Experts in constitutional law who ventured to discuss the parliamentary situation growing out of the retirement of Chancellor Stresemann's coalition cabinet, because of the Socialists' refusal to approve the "authorization law," believe the only alternative left to President Ebert is recourse to the prerogative allowed him by paragraph 48 of the constitution. By the terms of that paragraph as interpreted by Dr. Hugo Preuss, who drafted the constitution, President Ebert—if the chancellor's cabinet represents a minority government—must dictate such laws and relief measures as are demanded by the economic, financial and social situation.

Big Haul Of Liquor Made By Federal Agents In Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 5.—Liquor valued at a fortune was seized here last night by Federal general prohibition officers, who raided the warehouse of the Cincinnati Moring Company and arrested Albert Kipp, the proprietor.

After seizing 16 barrels and 21 cases said to contain whisky, the officers broke into another section of the building and found approximately 400 bottles of imported champagne, wines, cordials, brandies and gin, alleged to belong to W. Horace Schmidlapp of this city. Kipp is said to have told the officers the rent was being paid by Mr. Schmidlapp's guardians, and that the liquors had been stored with certain household furniture for approximately a year and a half. The 16 barrels and 21 cases in the basement were found in the space Kipp told the officers he had rented to a man giving the name of James Lindsey, Indianapolis, three months ago.

When arraigned on a charge of possessing and transporting liquor in violation of the Volstead act, Kipp pleaded not guilty. He furnished $2,500 bond.

According to the general agents, they have been waiting for five weeks to locate the liquor found in the basement of the storage warehouse. They say liquor has been coming to Cincinnati from Jacksonville, Fla., and shipments seized today was received here September 29 from Jacksonville.

It is said the waybill indicates it was shipped by the "Daval Grocery Company" to "James Lindsey," Cincinnati.

American Thief Shot By Police In Paris

PARIS, Oct. 5.—Gabriel Alphonse Mourer, wanted by the New York police in connection with a sensational jewel robbery in the home of Albert R. Shattuck in April, 1922, was probably fatally shot by the French police today while resisting arrest.

The police report that Mourer, who was apparently dead when picked up, revived and was taken to a hospital in a desperate condition, five of the police bullets having taken effect.

Cause of Fear Removed
NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Albert R. Shattuck, retired financier and his wife now may return to dwell in their red brick colonial house in Washington Square for with the arrest in Paris today of Gabriel Alphonse Mourer, alias Henry Bolger, the shadow which has surrounded the Shattuck home has been removed.

Mrs. Shattuck's nerves were so shaken after she, her husband and seven servants had been locked in the wine cellar of their home by five bandits, led by Mourer, that she refused to live there longer with Mourer at large, and Mr. Shattuck closed his home, announcing it would not be reopened until the robbery chief was rounded up. After that he personally led a world-wide search for Mourer, spending several months in Paris in the role of an amateur detective.

The robbers obtained $50,000 worth of jewelry. The robbery occurred April 1, 1922.

Three of the five robbers have been accounted for to date. With Mourer killed and Eugene Drazel and Maurice Bagnall arrested in England, N. J., and sent to Sing Sing for 40 to 60 years, only two others are at large.

Forty-Five Persons

Overcome By Chlorin

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—Forty-five persons, six women included, were overcome by chlorin gas in the Mill & Collins Paper Mill here today. Ten of the victims are in a serious condition.

The chlorin which is used to bleach paper pulp, escaped through a defective valve. Employees of the mill working in the bleaching room, detected the escaping gas but 30 were overcome and were carried from the place as they coughed and gasped in an effort to clear their lungs.

Officials of the mill summoned city firemen.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Hope Ranger, daughter of wealthy parents, disappears after a luncheon at the Plaza. A reward of a hundred thousand dollars is offered for her safe return. Justice Higley, attorney, and Quarez Charlie, adventurer, both warm friends of Ranger, assist the father in his search for his daughter.

Frank Bryan is Ranger's private secretary. A message comes to Loring instructing him to buy a hat for Hope and leave it at a specified place. Loring acts according to instructions and in due time receives a picture of his daughter taken in the hat he purchased.

George Kelsey is detained at a sanitarium and makes friends with a girl registered as sister to a nurse named Conley.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

With a sigh of relief, Charlie sank into a chair and busied himself in rolling a succession of cigarettes. "Perhaps a finger-print man could help us?" Ranger was still dwelling on this theme. "That letter and the photograph must have been handled by the person who put them in the envelope, and it might be—"

At last Charlie could unleash himself.

"Good Lord, Lorry!" There was actual entreaty in his voice. "Won't you understand? Won't you realize what we are up against? You talk about making those people pay, and sit here weaving kindergarten schemes to trap them; and all the time they've got you sewed up tighter than a drum. They've got your daughter in their hands, and they tell you plainly that if you don't come across with a hundred grand by tomorrow—and play square with them, too—you'll never see her again. What are you going to do about that?"

Ranger flinched for a moment before this vigorous presentation, but he rallied.

"Why, if I can't do anything else, I'll deposit the bonds as directed, and then have enough men close at hand to nab whoever comes after them."

"And you expect 'em to walk unsupervised right into your bunch of nabbers?" Lorry's Lorry! A Won kidnaped from the East Side would know better than to fall for a game like that. Do you know this place where you're supposed to plant the bonds?"

"Certainly. Behind a loose stone in the archway where the Lone Hill road runs under the railroad tracks."

"Got a picture of the locality in your mind?"

"I know it well; travel that way every time I motor out to our place in Westchester."

"So do I know it," Charlie's mouth widened comically. "Got caught through there once by a farmer's watch-dog. And, if you'll remember, you've got to be pretty nearly inside the archway before you can tell what's going on there. So, with dozens of automobiles of all kinds passing along the road all the time, your watch-dog would have to be planted practically in plain view to see the one that stops and gets the jack."

Ranger, when he gave it thought, could not well deny the strength of the objection. His head dropped, the worried lines began to reappear in his face.

"And now, this," Charlie caught up the letter from the Combine. You say you found it on your desk when you came back from luncheon. Any idea how it got there?"

"I meant to speak about that," Ranger's mouth tightened ominously. "I've had everybody in the building questioned, but no one admits being near the office."

"What does Bryan say?"

"I haven't had a chance to talk to him yet. He left before I did to go to Newark, and hasn't got back yet. I don't see—"

"But anyhow," he grew grim again. "I'm going to give him his walking papers—on suspicion."

"I wouldn't," Charlie demurred. "You want a fellow of that kind where you can keep an eye on him. Show him this letter and consult him about it. You won't learn anything, but it will make him feel easy. Then raise his salary. Tell him you want to show your appreciation of his faithful services."

He rose, and walked up and down the room, motioning Ranger to silence.

"I've got an idea, Lorry," he said at last; "but I don't want to talk about it, even to you. You just follow instructions—you've got to anyhow. Mrs. Ranger won't stand for anything else—and place those bonds as they've told you. Then leave the rest to me."

"But you will need help of some sort?" Ranger puckered his brows.

"You're not going to tackle this crowd alone, single-handed?"

"Well, not exactly," drawled Charlie. "You used to go to the races considerably, I remember. Then, if you don't mind, I'd like to borrow a stop-watch and a pair of field-glasses."

CHAPTER X

WHERE the Lone Hill road, one of Westchester County's main travel thoroughfares, dips under the railroad tracks, it passes through an archway of masonry between 50 and 75 feet long; and as this archway is high enough to accommodate a load of hay, and the surrounding country is one of level fields, the approach on either side is through a steep, walled cut.

But Charlie thought he saw a way to get around these unpromising conditions. He did not go home that night after leaving Ranger's office, but remained registered at a cheap East Side hotel where he spent the evening in an exhaustive study of an automobile road-map of Westchester County.

About two o'clock he came down stairs and passed out, casually remarking to the night clerk that he was awake and thought he would take a walk before he turned in.

At a garage eight or ten blocks away where he had left his motorcycle, he was sure he had thrown off any one who might be trying to trail him, when he turned north, and crossed back to Manhattan by way of the Queensboro bridge at Fifty-ninth street.

He found him at a little patch of woods along the railroad track about a half mile distant from the archway at the Lone Hill road crossing, where the ashes of a burned-out camp-fire and a scattered litter of rags, newspapers, old tin cans and worn-out shoes betokened a hole "jungle."

Beside it ran a back road, little more than a wagon-track, crossing the railroad here on the level, and forking into the Lone Hill road a quarter of a mile beyond. From his study of the map, he knew that this by-way again intersected the main road about a mile and a half above and he remembered that it was marked as rough and bumpy but passable for machines in case of emergency.

The wise campaigner, though, leaves nothing to chance. In order to make sure that it was open and without obstructions, Charlie rode out to the intersection with the Lone Hill road and circled back by way of this to his starting point.

He found the road in excellent condition, and the intersection was clear of obstructions. He turned back to his starting point.

the place designated as a depository for the liberty bonds, and from the instructions in the letter found no difficulty in locating it. Just about midway of the tunnel and at the height of a man's shoulder, there was a discolored streak on the masonry caused by dampness, and the mortar had crumbled from around one of the stones, leaving it loose.

Feeling it with his fingers, Charlie found the block easy to lift out. Behind it was a crevice, shallow but still large enough to hold a package of securities.

Charlie climbed back on his motorcycle, and returned to the "jungle." He appeared, as he had expected, to have it wholly to himself. This was a season when its nomadic habits were more apt to be in the West, following in the wake of circuses and street fairs, or answering the need for harvest hands. The ashes of the last camp-fire were at least three weeks old.

Nevertheless, as a proper measure of precaution, he scouted through the entire patch of woods, and as the light grew stronger climbed a tree to reconnoiter the surrounding country.

He slid down from the tree, and after hiding his motorcycle, carefully under a pile of brush, laid down in a sandy hollow and pulled his hat over his eyes, prepared to sleep.

When he awoke several hours later, the sun was warm on him, and he lay luxuriously for a while listening to the varied and various wood sounds, all long familiar to him. Finally he rolled over and pulled out his watch. It was almost 11 o'clock.

He ate from his package of sandwiches, uncorked the thermos bottle, then rising, swung himself up with a good deal of agility into the tree under which he had been sitting.

The hours passed on. The sun had crossed the zenith and declined toward the west. Charlie in his leafy retreat disposed of his remaining sandwiches and what was left of the coffee in his thermos bottle.

The rest of the time he put in at timing automobiles.

At half-past three, Ranger's big touring car came along from the direction of town. Through the glasses, Charlie could recognize the figure of the manufacturer himself in the driver's seat. He was quite alone; and as he neared the crossing, seemed to be glancing to right and left.

"Wondering what I'm up to, I guess," chuckled Charlie.

Yet his complacency did not keep him from very carefully timing the pace of the car as it swept along over the mangled courage.

As it happened there was nothing else in sight when Ranger reached the cut, and he drove straight ahead.

"At the rate he's traveling, he ought to be out in one minute and 17 seconds," Charlie calculated. "We'll get a line now on just how long it takes to pull out that stone and put it back again."

But it was almost five minutes before Ranger reappeared on the further side of the crossing.

"He'd be careful and a little slow," Charlie reflected; "so that's no fair criterion. I'd say, though, that anything that stayed down there longer than two minutes was a pretty safe bet to follow up."

Mr. Frick Congratulates Local Singers

Manager Adam Frick of the Chamber of Commerce has sent a letter of congratulations to Mrs. J. W. Bannan as president of The Ladies' Musical Society relative to the fine showing made by the Portsmouth singers last week at the Biscordoff at Jackson. The letter is as follows:

"My Dear Friends:—

"It is very gratifying to know that our talented citizens have again brought to our community an honor worthy of note and must not overlook complimenting those having rendered this service to us all."

"That your objective in mastering this situation has been accomplished is our great pride and we want to honor you further with this acknowledgment."

"The City's standing in the world of education and art is very largely determined by its musical talent, and that you were so skilled in this accomplishment that you were awarded these honors in a contest made up of so splendid contestants is, of course, a greater honor and which should bring to you great satisfaction."

Mr. Frick Urges Need Of New Depot, Better Crossings In Letter To Ohio Commission

Relative to the need of better passenger depot facilities and grade crossings in this city Manager Adam Frick of the Chamber of Commerce has sent the following communication to the Public Utilities Commission at Columbus, Ohio:

"In this city there are two conditions which we believe are worthy of the attention of the Public Utilities Commission and which we feel justified in referring to. One is the present depot facilities maintained by the Norfolk and Western Railway and the other the surface crossings throughout the city.

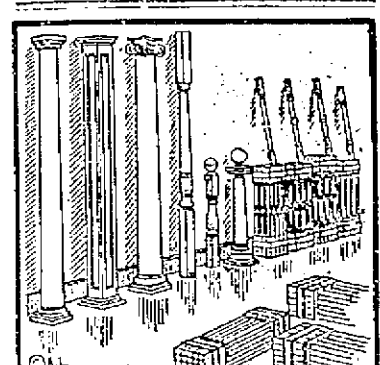

"The Chamber of Commerce have on many occasions taken up with the officials of the Railway Company the great need of better depot facilities and also the elimination of these surface crossings, but while that is recognized as a need by the officials themselves we secure but promises.

"Our city has grown from that thirteen to better than forty thousand people and we still have the small depot that the former C. P. & P. Railway installed here years before this small system was absorbed into the present great railway trunk line. That in itself would perhaps not be so bad were there any sanitary conditions within the structure and the grounds about it maintained so that one could keep out of the mud and rain while going to and returning from the trains. This condition should be improved.

"Then, the trains of greater than a hundred car lengths come into this city from the east and north and cross at grade all of the streets from end to end of the city at its greatest length and retard surface traffic both electric and motor for an unusual length of time. This keeps our people running from street to street finding a clear crossing over which they may pass.

"This condition is one of grave danger at all times in addition to delay and should be brought to attention by those in authority and to that end we are asking that you have one from your traffic department visit the office here and permit us to accompany him over the territory affected and experience such conditions as there are now in effect.

"We shall appreciate having reply

Attempt To Destroy Liquor On Arrival Of Dry Officers Prima Facie Evidence Of Guilt

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 5.—Federal prohibition officials are deeply interested in a case in the common-pleas court of Lawrence County in which the new state statute which provides that an attempt to destroy a liquor while a raid by dry officers is in progress is prima facie evidence that the stuff is liquor, was upheld by Judge Layne. The case was that of John Q. Harrison.

As a sheriff's squad entered Harrison's lunch room, the evidence showed, a woman employee shouted, "Here come the dry officers." Rushing through the store one of the deputies caught Harrison, it is charged, pouring a liquid from a bucket into a tub which contained a strong chemical solution. Harrison declared that the tub contained a disinfectant for use about the premises. A chemist testified that the liquid in the tub smelled strongly of fusel oil, an odor peculiar to moonshine.

Upholding the law which provides that an attempt to destroy a liquor during a dry raid is prima facie evidence of guilt, Judge Layne declared Harrison guilty. The decision, it is said by prohibition authorities, will greatly aid them in the prosecution of liquor law violations of this nature in the future.

More Evidence Given By Mrs. Agnes Miller

"Since taking Tanlac I feel strong, healthy and happy just like my friends all say I look," said Mrs. Agnes Miller, 2581 East 50th street, Cleveland, Ohio.

"Before I got Tanlac my entire system was badly run down. If I ventured on a shopping trip or at any other exertion I soon found myself all fagged out and would have to lie down and rest. My appetite had lost its usual keenness and I had headaches and dizzy spells and after meals I suffered from gas on my stomach and shortness of breath.

U. B. Goal Next Sunday Is 446

HEAL SKIN DISEASES

Apply Zemo, Clean, Penetrating, Antiseptic Liquid.

It is unnecessary for you to suffer with Eczema, Blotches, Itchiness, Rashes and similar skin troubles. Zemo obtained at any drug store for 35c, or $1.00 for extra large bottle, and promptly applied will usually give instant relief from itching, burning, and soothes the skin and heals quickly and effectively most skin diseases.
Zemo is a wonderful, penetrating, antiseptic liquid and is soothing to the most delicate skin. Get it today and save all further distress. Zemo Soap, 25c—25c. Advertisement.

The goal assigned to the United Brethren Sunday School for their attendance next Sunday is 446, and the membership are confident that they will go over the top.
For the special Rally Day attraction Sunday, the school will entertain their General Secretary, Dr. C. W. Brewbaker, who will be present at the Sunday School, morning worship and evening services. Dr. Brewbaker is coming to visit the school and of course the teachers and officers are particularly anxious that the membership turn out in large numbers for the occasion. Dr. Brewbaker's address to the Sunday School will be made during the opening exercises so it is very important that everyone be on time, that is, at exactly 9 o'clock.
The awarding of banners to the classes of the various departments who made the best showing in the past month over the same period a year ago, will also be made in the opening session.

The school is anxious that next Sunday will be a real Rally Day and that those of the membership who have been vacationing for the summer season, begin Sunday to take an active interest in the school. Visitors are always welcome and the visit of Dr. Brewbaker, Sunday, will no doubt be the cause of a number of visitors who are interested in Sunday School work. Hear him at either of the three services, sure.

ONE COLORFUL RING
There is a fad now to wear but one ring, but this must be a huge, cabochon sapphire or other colorful stone.
WOMEN SHOULD ACT QUICKLY
When a woman finds herself afflicted with backache, headaches, nervousness, dragging-down pains, pains in her side, irregularities and irritability, dark circles appear under the eyes and her complexion gets sallow, she may be sure the underlying cause is some ailment peculiar to her sex. Such women should act quickly and take the great American remedy for such conditions, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and they may be sure of relief. For generations this old-fashioned, root and herb medicine has been restoring ailing women to health and it may be relied upon with perfect confidence.—Advertisement.

WASHING SOLUTION

Heat one pound of soap in four gallons of water over a slow fire, then add one pound of soda. It will make a good solution for washing clothes where the water is too hard for good work.

IRREGULARITY MARKS STOCK PRICES IN DAY'S STOCK MARKET

Fair Demand, Prices Firm In Bonds Strength Of Some Shares Offset By Weakness Of Others

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—There was little indication of any increase in public buying in the early trading in bonds today, although prices were somewhat firmer and a fair demand was noted for both the investment and speculative railroad issues. Foreign bonds also showed slight improvement and the four United States Government issues were steady. Treasury issues were inclined to 3 1/2's, however again fell off fractionally. Trading was rather dull in the industrial group, with a number of the utility company issues moving slightly lower. Copper company issues were inclined to 3 1/2's.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Backings and selling movements characterized today's relatively quiet stock market. Strength of some of the tobacco, oil and chemical shares were offset by renewed heaviness in the steels, equipments, motors and rubbers. The closing was irregular. Sales approximated 300,000 shares.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The curb market today showed a generally receding tendency in practically all groups, partly due to profit taking in some issues.

Postal Receipts Show Increase

Postoffice receipts always serve as a barometer of any city's growth and as the receipts at the local postoffice continue to mount it is indicative that the Portsmouth City continues to advance. Postmaster Harsh stated Friday that the postal receipts for September were $2,617.08 in excess of the receipts for the same month in 1922.

Here Is Ruling On Cider

COLUMBUS, Oct. 5.—Prohibition laws can't prevent fermentation of cider and no attempt will be made to interfere with the making of cider vinegar, even though the cider becomes booze between the time the juice is pressed from the apple and ripens into vinegar, according to an announcement made yesterday by Prohibition Director B. F. McDonald. The director said owners of hard cider may keep it in their homes or drink it, but are not permitted to sell or give it away.

Sallie Ann SAYS

A new novelty that is extremely swank and charming arrived this morning at The Fashion. It is the new short fur fabric "jacquette." They come in a number of stunning styles and materials including Astrakan, crushed plush, kerami and caracul. They reach only to the hip and fasten at the side. Some have classy fur collars.

The Fashion is also showing a new line of brushed wool chappie jacquettes including plain tans and greys and novelty patterns. And some of them are of knitted Astrakan in very swaggy style. There are quite a selection of both kinds at $8.75.

Many mothers are taking great delight in the splendid selection of coats for the kiddies being shown at The Fashion. One little style that I noticed particularly is of smoked broadcloth in deer or brown with collar of either nutria or squirrel. They sell at only $10.75. Then there is the plain broadcloth coat in various shades in smoked style at $8.00. The Fashion is also showing a very complete line of intermediates, sizes 7 to 10; children's sizes 10 to 14; flappers' sizes 12 to 16; and Juniors, sizes 13 to 19. More Sunday.

82-YEAR-OLD HOOSIER "WELL AND HEARTY"

JOHN KEIM

Everybody living in or near Topeka, Ind., knows John Keim, who recently celebrated his eighty-second birthday. At present he is feeling fine, but his health has not always been of the best. In a letter dated Jan. 15, 1917, he stated that "for two months I was laid up with a severe attack of bronchitis, and tried everything I could hear of for it. Finally I heard of Nacor and used it according to directions. It has improved me in a short time and has done me more good than any other medicine." A letter from Mr. Keim, received Aug. 26, 1923, contained the following statement: "I am well and hearty. It is 11 years and tomorrow I will be 82 years old. Do you ever suffer from bronchitis? Are you made miserable by asthma? Do chronic coughs bother you? If so, take Nacor. This standard medicine—which has been on the market many years and is used the nation over—almost always brings quick relief to sufferers from these diseases. If you would like to know more about it and learn what your friends and neighbors think of it, send today for a new booklet, "The Health Question." It will be sent free of all charges and contains valuable information which you should have. A postal will bring it. Write The Nacor Medicine Company, 435 State Life Building, Indianapolis, Ind. White Vs. Moran

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Charles White, of Chicago, and Pat Moran, of New Orleans, each having won a "home town" victory over the other, and each ambitious to prove his right to meet champion Benny Leonard, are to clash in Madison Square Garden tonight, in the "rubber" engagement of the series.

Three years ago Moran whipped White in New Orleans, and a short time later White won a newspaper decision over Moran in East Chicago. Both contestants are reported to have met the weight requirement of 157 pounds for tonight's contest.

Phone Rate Sustained

COLUMBUS, O., October 6.—(By the Associated Press)—The rate of $8.50 a month for unified business telephone service in the Canton exchange area, is the legal and lawful charge, according to a letter of the State Public Utilities Commission to Mayor C. C. Curtis, of Canton, made public today. The rate had been questioned by Canton subscribers.

Mayor Curtis said.

It had been declared that inasmuch as the commission has ordered the Ohio Bell Telephone Company to immediately unfile service at Canton, the company could collect only $6 a month for unified business service.

The greater rate is permissible, the commission said, under a schedule of rates filed with it which became effective July 5, 1923.

K. K. K. Organizer To Leave Ironton

The Ironton Register, Thursday, October 4, contains an account of the state organization of the Ku Klux Klan in Ironton, which was organized by S. P. Moore, who is now in the city. He said that his efforts here had not been highly successful and that the membership lists and all material had been turned over to the state authorities, who will be sent to another place. He was not certain what would become of the members here, but said that with all the newspaper campaign against him and calling upon the good people to remain out of the organization, it had evidently been concluded that a unit of membership here had been reached. The headquarters of the organization here have been abandoned. Mr. Moore stated that a total of 886 members had been secured here. It is believed that an effort will be made to hold them together. There will be no more fiery speeches on the hillside, according to the organizer.

Grand Jury Probe Of McCray's Affairs Gets Under Way

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., October 5. (By the Associated Press.)—Investigation of the financial operations of Governor Warren T. McCray was started by the Marion county grand jury with extraordinary precautions being taken to preserve the seclusion of the grand jury and the witnesses who have been called to appear. While the grand jury has been called primarily to investigate the governor's dealings with the Marion National Bank of Marion, Indiana, the charges given by Judge James A. Collins indicated that the inquiry might take on a broader scope. In his specially prepared instructions, Judge Collins pointed out that the order of inquiry provides for an investigation "into the violations of the criminal laws of this state generally of which this court has jurisdiction."

After receiving the judge's instructions, the grand jury was placed in charge of Charles W. Moore, special prosecutor, and retired to a third floor room to begin its work. A person to the room was guarded by two city patrolmen who kept the corridors clear of all persons except officials and witnesses. While the grand jury investigation

Vandals Making Effort to Liberate Deer On West Side Game Preserve

Supervisor Frank Voorhees, of the Roosevelt Game Preserve, is convinced that an organized effort is being made by certain persons living down in that section to liberate the deer and he is planning a vigilant campaign in the hope of apprehending the vandals. According to Voorhees, a few mornings ago he found that an entire panel of the fence, which surrounds the deer corral, had been removed and later found a note tucked on a convenient post, reading: "If your deer don't get out now, we'll get them this winter."

Our Buyers Take Personal Interest In The Clientele

Every buyer in the store is keenly interested in you—our customers. There is Mr. Kline in the Ready-to-wear section for instance. He'll return next week from a ten days' buying trip in New York.

He'll bring with him he writes us, the newest and smartest innovations for Milady's wardrobe, he could find in the best markets in New York.

In describing them to us who had remained at home, he remarked: "There is a Dress I know would be wonderful on Mrs." (He mentioned one of our patrons). So you see that even on his busy trips to Eastern markets, you are kept in mind.

Each one of our buyers is just as keenly interested in pleasing you as Mr. Kline. We feel sure displays here now will prove this to you when you take a trip thru the different sections in the store.

The Way of Quality

In observing fashions, one learns that the smart way is more frequently the way of comfort. And so it is in observing our store—close observation and knowledge of the store, will teach you, that the way of the satisfied customer is the way of Quality.

And it has been because, we stand for Quality, not only in our merchandise, but in our Service, that we are here to serve you today.

A house built upon the sand will not stand, but a store built upon quality will. We therefore solicit your business because we know we are meeting your demands in a Quality way. We believe you cannot afford to substitute quantity for Quality, and we shall not sacrifice quality for price. As to Price, you shall be the judge. "Volume of business, not margin of profit," is the rigid policy at this store and always will be.

Thief Visits Dever Store

Burglars visited the Frank Dever grocery at 1538 Gallia street early last night and made a safe get away with about $40 in small change taken from the cash register. The robbery was discovered by Mr. Dever when he returned to the store about nine o'clock to get a paper he had left there when he closed the store at six o'clock and an investigation disclosed that the intruders had entered through a rear window after smashing a hole in the glass which made it easy to turn the sash lock. The police were notified and went to the scene but outside of footprints in the alley no trace of the invaders was found.

JUST SO.

Main Streeter—Have you the correct time, Senator?

Senator Fuller Bull—I have, my friend. And, speaking as one who has served his constituency faithfully, at least—and I say so without fear of being gainsaid; speaking, also, from the standpoint of one who has consistently represented the common people—and I challenge my enemies to prove the contrary; speaking as one of the people myself, I am pleased to inform you that it is exactly twenty-three minutes after three. I thank you!

To Pass On Legality Of Petitions

Drills Stolen

James Lykens has asked the police to aid him to trace the theft of two electric drills which he claims were recently stolen from the automobile garage which he is conducting on Third street, near Court, formerly owned by Pyle brothers.

In gaining entrance to the garage the intruders scaled a high alley fence and forced a side window, carrying away the two drills which he valued at $150.

BLACK AND GRAY

Black and gray, with brilliant embroidery and heading in the trimming, are used most successfully this season.

At its meeting tonight the Board of Election is expected to pass on the legality of the new nominating petitions recently filed by Dr. E. C. Jackson, Conrad Roth, and Dr. Gilbert Hicks, liberal candidates for the City School Board, and James Lykens and Smith Crull, candidates for the county board of education, whose original petitions were protested and later thrown out. The board will also act on the petitions of several other candidates for township school boards.

The session was to have been held Wednesday but was postponed until tonight, on account of the absence from the city of one of the members.

BOXING SHOW STARTS AT 8:15 TONIGHT IN MILLBROOK

When the first gong rings at 8:15 tonight at Millbrook pavilion the fans can be prepared for one of the best boxing shows ever pulled off in the Pease City.

Considerable interest is attached to the White-Titus semi-final as it will serve to show just how much White has progressed since their first meeting when Titus won by a K. O.

George Alexander and Charlie Pilon will mix it for six rounds to decide which boxer is the better champion of the city.

Nig Blair and Phil Keith weighed in for the main event this afternoon at the Smoke House. Both boys tipped the scales around 146 pounds with their clothes on and each conceded to the stipulated 140 pounds.

Blair worked out ten fast rounds with White Thursday evening and his wind was in fine condition. Nig said he felt better.

Doc Price will meet Freddie Giesher, Keith's sparring partner in the opener. They both have had about ten bouts to their credit and appear to be evenly matched.

There are plenty of good seats left at the Smoke House where they will be on sale tonight until 7 o'clock. Over fifty seats have been sold to out-of-town fans.

P. H. S. AND HAMILTON HI CLASH HERE TOMORROW

Members of the P. H. S. football squad were put through a light practice on the Sixteenth street lot this afternoon and are ready for the strong Hamilton Hi game on the Sixteenth street lot, which will start at 2:30 p. m., Saturday.

There is no question but what P. H. S. mettle will be tested tomorrow, as Hamilton is said to have a well balanced grid machine.

Prof. H. H. Eccles witnessed last Saturday's game between Hamilton and Aquinas High of Columbus, and he brings word back that Hamilton has a real team, not only boasting of considerable weight but also speed and many trick plays.

Three colored boys on the visiting eleven and one of them who plays a halfback position is said to be one of the best backs in high school football in this section of the state.

The P. H. S. crew has been working hard this week and many mistakes uncovered in the Huntington game last Saturday have been corrected. The scrimmage sessions of the last few days have brought out the best that is in the locals and when the Red and Blue defenders take the field Saturday they will present a much different team than the one that met Huntington last week.

P. H. S. football fans will get their first glimpse of the Red and Blue candidates as Coach McCoub will doubt will give all the candidates a real chance to show their ability.

Here Was Real Game

One of the most exciting football games of the season was held Thursday afternoon in a pasture on the site of the former Boy Scout camp above Solotville. The game was one of the features of an enjoyable day spent by the Scouts of Troop 17 of St. Mary's Church, accompanied by Scout Executive L. T. Henderson.

The "Braveros" won from the "Orlons" by a score of 37 to 23 after a desperate struggle. No casualties were reported.

McTigue Says He Was Forced To Enter Ring At Point Of Gun; Row Follows Georgia Bout

COLUMBUS, GA., Oct. 5—Mike McTigue of Ireland, retains his world's light-heavyweight championship by virtue of three decisions by Harry Ernie, New Jersey referee.

After ten mediocre rounds here yesterday, Ernie made motions with his hands and left the ring only to return within a few moments and declare "Young" Stribling of Macon, Georgia, the winner, and, three hours later, from the conclusion of a private home issued a statement that the original verdict, a draw, with McTigue to retain his crown, stood.

Confusion reigned throughout the final day of the fight, starting in the small hours of the morning after McTigue at midnight had announced a poorly mended broken bone in his left thumb rendered him incapable of defending his championship, and until McTigue agreed to enter the ring despite his injury. McTigue and his manager, Joe Jacobs, said they were forced to change the original draw decision and that Major John Paul Jones, promoter, had raised the referee's hand as Stribling inserted his glove within his grasp.

Major Jones, on the other hand, declared Ernie Jacobs and McTigue had attempted to penetrate a "colossal fake" and "apparently have succeeded in carrying out their intention."

He declared McTigue had been "played for a sucker" by his manager, had been told Stribling would be an easy victim and that after he had a glimpse of Young Stribling knew he could not win from the Georgia youth and "it was nothing else for him to do except run out of the fight."

Major Jones declared that a challenge from Georges Garapender after the latter's win over Joe Beckett in London, and offers from various promoters running as high as $50,000 influenced the champion in his action.

McTigue knowing that his value as a drawing card would be depreciated by a loss to Stribling.

Major Jones appealed to Chairman Muldoon of the New York boxing commission, outlining his version of the fight.

Major Jones said he pleaded with the champion without avail and then "realized that the lives of the fighter and his manager were in danger, with fight fans pouring into the city, and sat up with them all night Wednesday in case of emergency."

Major Jones said that referee Ernie came to him and asked that the fight be a non-draw affair, and again that an exhibition contest to be declared a draw, be staged.

McTigue who left Columbus shortly after the fight, declared in a statement before he left that he had been "forced to go into the ring at the point of a gun. I have never known before of a champion being forced to enter the ring with one hand and at the point of a gun. The gun was displayed in my hotel, but not actually pointed at me."

"Harry Ernie rendered several decisions in the McTigue-Stribling championship bout," said the telegram to the New York Commission. "The entire vote of all newspaper men gave the decision to Stribling by a wide margin. At the conclusion of the bout Ernie pointed at both men but did not raise either hand. Newspaper men and officials asked him to make his decision. He stated that he would make the decision three hours after the bout. We demanded that he make his decision in the ring. We informed him that over 150 police and 200 soldiers were present for his protection.

All we wanted was a square deal. After a great amount of argument, he lifted Young Stribling's arm and declared him the winner. Three hours after the fight he issued a statement that his decision is a draw.

"This morning ten of the best surgeons in this state declared after an X-ray examination that McTigue's injury was an old one and that some injury to his thumb occurred prior to his signing our contract on Labor Day for the bout held today. After much wrangling McTigue agreed to enter the ring to defend his championship. He lost six rounds, carried 2 and 2 were draws. This was the average opinion."

"Prior to entering the ring Jacobs insisted that in the event Stribling won the fight an opportunity be given McTigue for a return engagement."

"He was unable to run out on us and had to fight. We desire you to make a thorough investigation as 5,000 fans here are adhering to Ernie's decision giving Stribling the world's championship."

ATLANTA, GA., Oct. 5.—(By the A. P.)—Guarded by four husky military policemen from Camp Benning, Mike McTigue, world's light-heavyweight champion, his manager, Joe Jacobs, and Harry Ernie of Jersey City, referee, arrived here at 3 o'clock this morning from Columbus. They came through in two automobiles, the party having left Columbus secretly.

They went to a hotel and will leave for New York during the day.

Ernie declared that at no time did he change his decision that the fight between McTigue and Stribling was a draw. "It was the worst situation I ever was in," he said to the Associated Press.

"They kept me in that ring for fully a half hour trying to make me change my decision. I said that it was a draw when the fight ended and I said it was a draw when they threatened me, and I still say it was a draw."

He declared he believed he was giving Stribling "all that was coming to him" when he called the fight a draw.

Ernie was bitter against Major J. Paul Jones, head of the American Legion commission, that prompted the fight. "The minute I hit town he tried to bully me," said the referee. "He said 'now you are in town, you can't get out.' I said 'what's the idea, are you trying to bully or browbeat some people.' He said, 'Well, we've got all the railroad stations covered.' What he meant by that I don't know."

Joe Jacobs, manager for McTigue, read the statement of Major Jones and said, "Every word that he says is an untruth. We didn't try to run out of anything. Dr. Fitzmaurice and Dr. Baker of Columbus, advised McTigue not to go into the ring as it might ruin his arm for life."

Jacobs said the Irishman became angry at tactics of "yellow" and insisted on fighting, but Mike interposed with Joe, "I wasn't fighting because they called me yellow; I was fighting to save my life."

Jacobs said it would be at least ninety days before the fighter would enter the ring again.

Yanks Starting The Old Alibi Stuff

Football Games Saturday, October 6

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 5.—(By the A. P.)—The Ohio College football season, which had its initiation a week ago with the playing of sporadic contests by some teams, will be on in earnest over the coming week-end. Starting today with a single battle at Berea where Antioch meets Baldwin-Wallace, twenty games in all will be played before tomorrow night.

Columbus, somewhere near the center of the state geographically, also is expected to be the central point of interest tomorrow. For Ohio State, official western conference representative of the Buckeye state, is to make its first appearance against Ohio Wesleyan, Tont to have a much better team than that of last year and possibly one which will be a championship contender, the Buckeyes will be watched closely both by their own followers and the scouts of their future opponents. Wesleyan, said to possess considerable power in spite of heavy losses from its veteran ranks, is expected to give a good account of itself.

The race for Ohio conference honors also will get under way tomorrow. Hanks of championship contenders, however, already are somewhat thinned, for in the single conference game last Saturday, Oberlin, a consistent winner, fell by the wayside when Hiram slipped over a 7 to 6 win. Once defeated, Oberlin will face another severe test tomorrow when Ohio University journeys to the northern Ohio town. A second defeat for the upstate team is not regarded as entirely convincing although the initial defeat was expected to have a salient effect.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Miller Huggins, manager of the New York Yankees, announced today there was small hope of Wally Pipp being able to take his regular stand at first base during the world's series with the Giants next week. Pipp's ankle, which was injured in Boston last week, is healing slowly, Huggins said. Babe Ruth probably will hold down the first bag.

Roh Mersel's ankle, which also was hurt, continues to pain the Yankee left fielder and he too faces the possibility of having a nice comfortable seat on a bench while his team-mates battle with their fellow townsmen.

"All the bad luck of the year seems to have descended upon us in Boston last week," said Huggins. "Mike Mc- Nally, infield utility man is out with a sprained ankle and Ruth also has been favoring an ankle for several days. Ruth's ankle, however, seemed stronger today and I expect him to be in first class shape by next Wednesday."

Huggins said he probably would start either Jones or Pennington on the mound in the opening game of the series unless the skies were cloudy in which event, Joe Bush who pitched and lost the first game of last year's series would be chosen.

"I don't see why we're the favorites in the betting," said Huggins. "The series looks even to me. We have five good pitchers but no great ones like Alexander, Johnson or Madson who can be depended upon to win two or three games."

LUIS CONTINUES TO EXPLAIN

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Louis Arce, does not want to be a citizen of the United States of America, despite the fact that he applied for naturalization papers a few days ago. He received this information to the bureau of naturalization today in a note both signed and sworn to.

As an explanation of his signature of the other day, Arce stated that he had taken out first papers through a man of apprehension; he did not think any more would take him seriously. The man conveyed in his letter was that he only wished to pay the United States the delicate compliment for the severe treatment received here. He now the victim of "deep regret" because the inconvenience he has caused the department.

Leonard To Fight In Tia Juana

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, has been signed to defend his title at Tia Juana, Mexico, December 24, against an opponent to be selected by Jim Coffroth, promoter of the proposed bout. It was noted today by Billy Gibson, manager of the champion, Leonard will leave for Tia Juana late in November.

THE CONQUEST OF THE AIR

THE marvel of the age is how man is eliminating distance, having already, almost put time out of existence. That is to say, one can converse or communicate with another by phone or wireless a thousand and more miles away without any more appreciable lapse of moment than if he were across the room.

Is man going to travel as fast as he talks? An odd question, but it isn't safe to say it presents something out of the range of possibilities. The other day an American flew a plane at the rate of 234 miles an hour, wasn't it? and about the next day a Frenchman ran the record up to 244.

In the vernacular of the day you say that is some speed, but it was the rate of so many miles an hour and that doesn't mean anything. Yes, but it does. Remember aerial navigation is but in its infancy. The first automobile was a hummer, but it covered only about 15 miles an hour. Now they build them to go over 100.

And just think of it. A French dirigible started out from Marseilles, Tuesday, it flew down Africa way to the edge of the Sahara desert. There it turned for home, but was beaten back by heavy headwinds, so veering eastward it flew over Italy, across the Alps, around Paris and Saturday morning was back home. It was continuously in the air, from start to finish, and covered 4,500 miles, and wasn't out for speed at that.

In ten years they'll be advertising trips around the world in seven days, with hour stops in London, Paris, Rome, Constantinople, Peking, Yokohama, Manila, Hawaii, San Francisco and Portsmouth.

A FINE KENTUCKIAN

CITIZENS of Eastern Kentucky, regardless of politics, should feel unusual interest in the candidacy for governor of the Hon. William J. Fields. For Mr. Fields is an Eastern Kentuckian, born and bred. His special interests lie in that section of the Commonwealth. And while, as governor, he would be big enough and broad enough, to not regard sectional lines, at the same time Eastern Kentucky would have a strong friend at court, and her interests would receive what they have not received in past, friendly consideration to which they are entitled. Eastern Kentucky asks no more than is her due, but she has not received the impartial treatment in the past, from state governments, that her importance, her vast wealth in mineral resources, and her marvelous growth in population deserved. With one of her own sons in the governor's chair, that condition would be changed.

And in William J. Fields the whole state of Kentucky has a man who represents the best and truest interests of the state. He is a fine, clean, upstanding gentleman. He has held many offices of public trust, and he has been faithful, honest and diligent in the fulfillment of his duties. As a member of the national congress he has reflected credit upon his state and his immediate constituents.

The Times has the pleasure of serving a large portion of Eastern Kentucky with their daily record of news events, and we feel that we are but doing our duty in recommending to all our readers, both Democrats and Republicans, favorable consideration of the candidacy of Mr. Fields.

About the only place on earth where the papers now grind away as did the old time party organs is New York city. The fulminations of their drivel remind one altogether of the days when the county seat bosses used to edit the weekly sheets. Principally there is nothing but bad on the other side and incidentally nothing but good on ours.

Maryland has a moonshine congressman who is trying his best to get Commissioner Haynes to indict him, but so far Roy has been so busy talking of what he is doing that he isn't doing anything.

Nothing in a name. Constable Delay, of Jackson, very promptly captured a fugitive in Columbus.

Now dreadful old chaos is said to be meandering around Berlin.

New York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. MONTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Thoughts while strolling around New York: Tenth Avenue after midnight. All night drug stores that sell silk stockings. And suspicious frosted drinks. Men who dance having and crackers. Movies with a "message."

Flat wheeled cars making night hideous. Night barber shops. A section called Russian Hill. A group around a funeral parlor. Children who hum "Rum-tum-tum-tum, Rum-tum-tum-tum-tum-tum" at passing cypriotes. Bearded men singing Pagliacci. Laborers smoking gold-tipped cigarettes. Sordid, soiled gloom. Children waiting from fire escapes. An artist painting the laughing mouth of a stone fountain. Magic doctors. Youngsters returning from diving off docks.

Back in the flippant dignity of Longacre Square. There's a man carrying a horse collar into the subway. A fellow dashing into a hotel in his bathrobe. Joy riders filling the benches. Tippy girls shouting to passers-by. I'll hurry. I'm at that age where I pick up things I shouldn't hear.

Teague's crying. Inseparable things. Yes, they have some of those. "Oo! Am I getting too fresh? White wings jiggling to a harmonica. Early edition newsies rolling dice. A policeman walking. Unsteadily. O, the numbers! O, the times!

Fifth Avenue's window cleaners and sign painters going to work and all whistling. Alfred George opens his newspaper lunch for the day. He whistles, too. Sleepers drift out from Bryant Park. And shake themselves like wet dogs.

The corner where my dog was killed. The first pink glow of morning. That strange clatter before a great city awakes. And for some the final day. I hope the months have been reasonable with my winter clothes. Now for the snowy sheets. And to dream awhile.

I forgot the most important thing I saw in my night stroll. Perhaps it is old stuff. Two aeroplanes with brilliant electric signs facing the ground divided over Times Square at midnight. One advertised a facial cream and the other a safety razor.

The house has almost disappeared in the center of New York and yet a man who knows tells me there are a million more houses in the United States than there were ten years ago. This is the government census. It is also a fact that in New York 73 per cent of the trucks are horse drawn.

Relic of Antiquity
In the motion picture of "Robin Hood" Lady Marston desired to send a message to the Earl of Huntington, and chooses Little John to act as her messenger. She presents John with a scroll which she protects by what seems to be a black cat or tube. As she handed it over, a small boy in the audience asked his mother what it was. "That's a flashlight," she answered in a loud voice. "Don't show your ignorance, Mary," snapped her husband. "They didn't have flashlights in those days. That's a thurnus tottle."

Such Cruelty
"Did you make those big eyes, my dear?" "Yes, darling." "Well, I'd rather you would not make any more, sweetheart." "Why not, my love?" "Because, angel mine, you are too light for such heavy work."

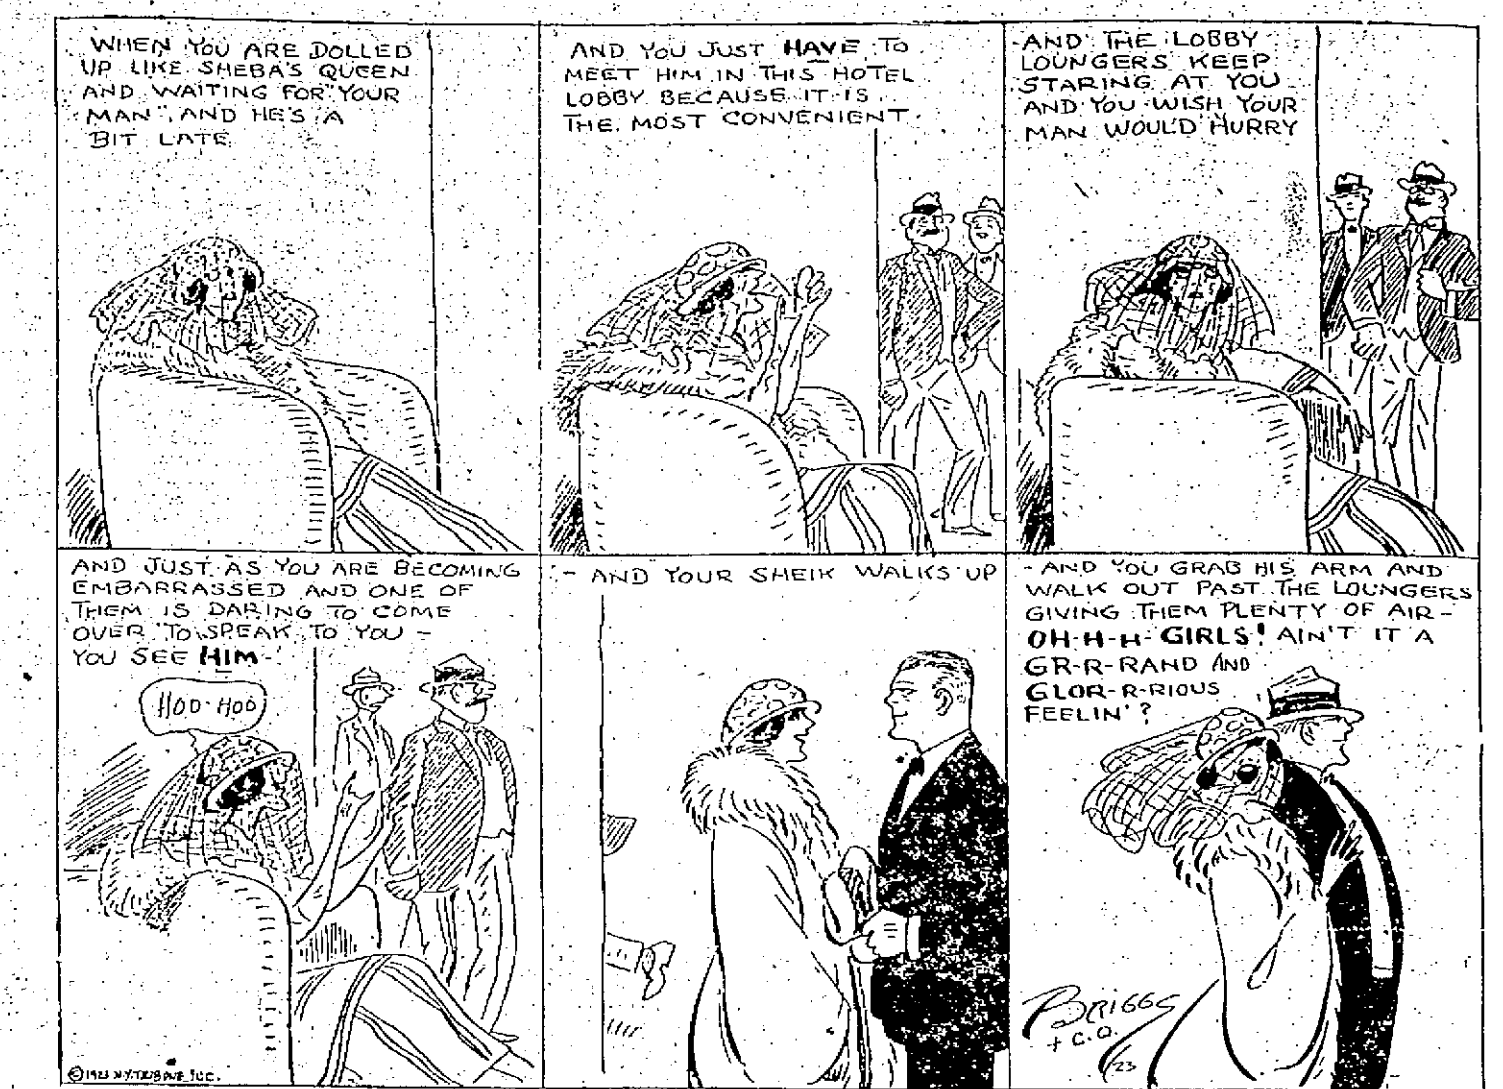

More In Her Line
It was made clear to the lady juror that she must say nothing—must talk to positively nobody while serving. "Oh, judge," she cried, bursting into tears, "can't I be a witness instead?"

Elbe Martin

We like quiet people, but President Coolidge ought to say something party some just as a guarantee that the government at Washington still lives. We hadn't read nothing more incandescence than "Don't want run."

Unluckily!
Kelly: "I've think Casey'll get time off for good behavior." Houston: "I dunno. What's he in for?" Kelly: "Heavin' up his wife, four policemen an' two detectives."

AIN'T IT A GRAND AND GLORIOUS FEELING—BY BRIGGS

Use Herpelde!
A clerk in a Centerville, Iowa, shoe store, whose head was almost bald, was trying on a pair of shoes for one of the female species, an exchange reporter. She was paying more attention to those around her than she was to her foot. When she happened to look down she spied the clerk's bald head, and thinking it was her bare knee, she quickly grabbed her skirt and covered it. Timely assistance on the part of fellow clerks saved the bald one from suffocation.

What's In a Name
A farmer who owned a large cat the ranch was bragging to passersby about his cows. "Why," he said, "I have one cow that gives seventy-five gallons of milk in one day." "What do you call that cow?" asked the stranger. "I call that cow Peg." "Why, I should think that you'd call the cow something large, very large, like, well, like—United States." "Call that cow United States? I should say not. Do you think I want that cow to go dry on me?"

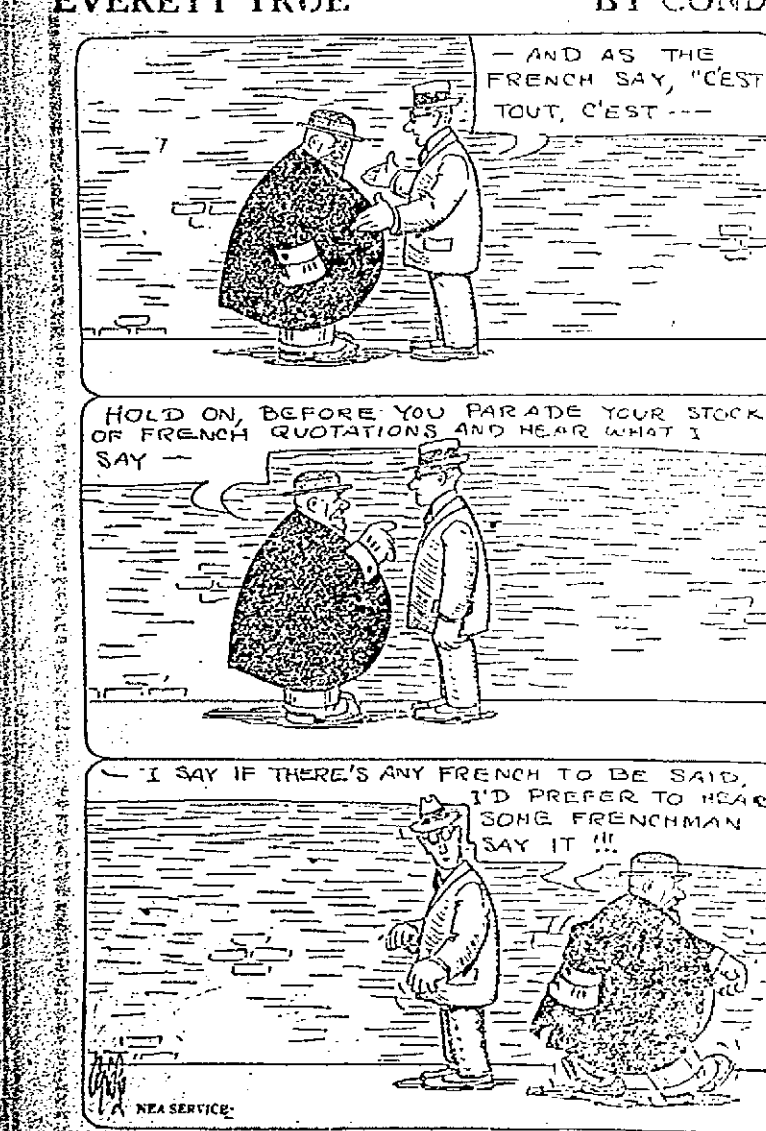

But Not Too Hard
An Italian who kept a fruit stand was much annoyed by possible customers who make a practice of handling the fruit and pinching it, thereby leaving it softened and often spoiled. Exasperated beyond endurance, he finally put up a sign which read: "If you must pinch da fruit, pincha da cocoanut!"

Just So So
"Dis sho' am a desultory day," remarked Rufus Lee, pleasantly lifting his weather beaten hat and bowing to the dusky Miss Johnson. "Law, Misto Lee," replied that lofty lady, "Ah fin' it gubernatorially frightfully dis mo'rnin'." "Go long, Miss Johnson," said the brave Mr. Lee, non-plussed. "Yo ahn so economical."
